

Vehicle-Respossession (1).mov

At Boleman Law, we understand how essential your vehicle is to your daily life. Getting to work, running errands, and picking up the kids all depend on it. That's why the thought of repossession can be so distressing. But here's where we come in with a comforting assurance. We will help you if your vehicle has been repossessed or is on the verge of repossession. Falling behind on a car payment can indeed lead to your vehicle being repossessed or even being disabled electronically. However, declaring bankruptcy can halt this process in its tracks in many cases. Not only can we stop the car from being taken away, we can also arrange for recently repossessed vehicle to be returned to you. Moreover, bankruptcy offers a pathway to catch up on overdue payments and may even reduce the total amount you owe on the vehicle if you're facing the stress of potential or actual vehicle repossession. Don't hesitate to reach out. Let us help you navigate through this challenging time and work towards a solution that keeps you behind the wheel. Call us today. We're here to help you move forward.
